freshing patches of verdures on the otherwise barren hill, some idea may be formed of the charming appearance Hongkong would present if well clothed with vegetation. The effect forests have in modifying the heat of a tropical climate is now well known. The rainfall, if not increased, will prove more certain, and the supply of water in the streams lie more abundant. Many streams which are now dried up in the winter's would then become personial, and the supply of water in the reservoir would he less affeeted by a drought. Hongkong will, in short, become a more desirable place of residence as it becomes more wooded.

The necessity of tuking efficient steps for conserving the existing woods and forests in the Colony is very properly dwelt upon by Mr. FORD. He says :- "Afforestation consists not " merely of planting trees but of conservation "and preservation from wanton and accidental "destruction of trees, shrubs, and seeds at "present on the ground. The recent authori-"zation of the appointment of Forest Guards, " to check the destruction of, and damage to, trees and shrubs by persons and goats will have a most salutury effect. Still, although "the damages will be greatly diminished, de viruso virianae necesario en escapa e en ce "there will always he some persons in this, "as well as other things, to break the law "Oh bella, anzi bellissima," was greeted with when they can have a chance to do so with "impunity.
